INTRODUCTION

The publication of Volume 2, Higher Education Collective Bargaining: Other Than Faculty Personnel, December 1975 marks the end of the first phase in the development of the National Center for the Study of Collective Bargaining in Higher Education.

Soon after the Center was founded in late 1972, our first director, Maurice C. Benewitz, began to seek funds for various projects. With valuable assistance from others at Baruch College, Dr. Benewitz developed a research proposal to establish a college collective bargaining contract library at the Center.

The Elias Lieberman Memorial Foundation granted the Center $76,000 to establish the contract collection. The Center now has more than two hundred and ten college and university contracts on file. One hundred and twenty-four of these contracts have been placed on a computer with a full-text retrieval capability which greatly enhances the work of the researcher.

The contracts and other materials collected by the library form the basis for our Newsletter which is published five times a year. In addition, the library has begun two annual bibliographies: Collective Bargaining in Higher Education, Volume 1, April 1973; Volume 2, April 1974; Volume 3, April 1975; and Higher Education Collective Bargaining: Other Than Faculty Personnel, Volume 1, December 1974, and Volume 2, December 1975.

The Lieberman grant provided a salary for a librarian for the two-year period in addition to the computer project. John C. Allen was hired in the spring of 1973 in anticipation of the Lieberman funding. More than any other Center employee, he was responsible for the publication and information retrieval system. John Allen left the employ of the Center in June 1975 as the Lieberman grant expired. He left us with a functioning information center, a set of regular publications and a record of service which we will strive to continue.

Fiscal constraints prevented Baruch College from continuing the librarian's position once the grant expired. Fortunately, The Ford Foundation agreed to begin a three-year support program this fall. For nineteen weeks, however, we have been without the services of a librarian. Despite this handicap, the publications schedule of the Center has been maintained. As John Allen developed the library, so Daniel Julius, a graduate student at Columbia University, held the library together during this crisis. That we have been able to maintain our publication schedule is a credit to him, the Baruch graduate and undergraduate students assigned to the Center and our dedicated Center staff.

As 1975 ends, the Center library, supported by The Ford Foundation grant, looks forward to a stable period of growth and continued service.

Acting Director

P R E F A C E

For those working and studying in American colleges and universities, collective bargaining has become an institutional reality. Although unionism in higher education is less than ten years old, as of September 1975, roughly 20% of the faculty at four-year institutions and 35% of those working at two-year colleges had a union agent of some kind designated to represent their faculties and sometimes their non-teaching professionals. While many in academe predict that collective negotiations will leave an indelible imprint on institutions of higher learning, there are few organizations (like the National Center) which are designed to engage in an objective exploration of the union phenomenon.

In keeping with the responsibility to serve as an information clearing house, this bibliography represents the second in a series of publications which expand coverage of retrospective and current references to other-than-faculty-personnel in higher education. Included among the citations are books, journal and newsletter articles, material from the Government Employee Relations Report (GERR), Labor Relations Reference Manuals (LRRM, LRR), National Labor Relations Board (NLRB), Court Rulings, PERB Decisions and Arbitration Awards.

All National Center bibliographies include an Author-Person Index and a Keyword-Subject Index which provide cross-references to the user. The Glossary of Labor Terms is a special feature of this publication. The reader may also note that references are made to citations not included in this compilation but indexed in the Center's other bibliographies: Collective Bargaining in Higher Education, Volumes I, II and III (April 1973, 1974 and 1975); and Higher Education Collective Bargaining: Other Than Faculty Personnel, Volume I (December 1974). Readers are, therefore, encouraged to supplement the present bibliography to gain additional information into selected and related areas of concern. It is also of importance to note that listings followed by abstracts are not necessarily better than those lacking annotations. In such cases the decision to include descriptive phrases was based upon our ability to synthesize primary and secondary resources.

Information detailing the National Center's publications, services, contract file and computer system is incorporated at the end of this bibliography.

Additions and corrections to this bibliography are appreciated. The Center solicits copies of published and unpublished material to be included in future reference works, or for publication in the Center's Newsletter. We would welcome reprints of all appropriate articles, briefs, arbitration/fact-finding awards, NLRB, SLRB, PERB decisions, etc.

No preface is complete without acknowledgement by the author of the assistance and efforts of fellow employees. Kenneth Dressner helped immeasurably in the preparation of this bibliography. Without the advice and encouragement received from Dr. Thomas Mannix, Acting Director of the Center, the supervision of clerical and administrative matters by Mrs. Evan Mitchell, the typing by Patricia Doocey and Annie Polite, and the assistance of Joseph Egan, Joseph Tondi and Frank Warren, this bibliography would never have materialized.

- In passing judgment in a civil case, a court may presume the contesting parties are free to sever relations. But in labor-management arbitration, the past and future relations of the parties can properly temper the arbitrator's decision. That distinction, with which Saul Wallen argued against turning arbitration over to the courts, is one of the insights in the noted arbitrator's newly published papers.

An employee, dismissed by a state university, appealed his dismissal to the Career Service Commission of the state. The commission sustained the dismissal but refused his request for a free transcript of the proceedings for appellate review. Aiello, (417 U.S. 484; 1974), ruled that a state disability insurance program that excluded "pregnancy" from the definition of disability did not violate the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, a federal district court held that an employer's denial of sick leave benefits to an employee absent from work due to normal pregnancy violated the sex discrimination provision of Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

COURT CASES - Kentucky

- 167 Harlan Appalachian Regional Hospital v. Taylor.
(424 SW 2d 580; 1968).

COURT CASES - Missouri (cont'd)

- 174 University of Missouri; Curators v. Public Service Employees Local 45. (Missouri Supreme Court) 88-LRRM-3039 to 42.

Court maintains that the Missouri Public Sector Law (SLL 35:211) does not infringe on the right of the Board of Curators to govern the University of Missouri under the Missouri constitution; it merely provides a procedure for public employees to assert their constitutional rights to assemble peaceably and to petition for redress of grievances. No. 58646 (March 10, 1975).

COURT CASES - New York

- 175 Ankner v. Lang. (New York State Supreme Court. 33 Misc. 2d 341, 225 NYS 2d 161; 1962).

- 179 State ex rel. Brand v. Eversman. (155 Ohio St. 383, 99 NE 2d 169; 1951).

The state supreme court held that the auditor of a municipal university is an "administrative officer" as that term is defined in the municipal ordinances and, as such, he is not entitled, under state civil service regulations, to any written notice or charges, or to an opportunity to be heard in defense of such charges, before dismissal.

- 180 State of Ohio ex rel. Sigall v. Aetna Cleaning Contractors. (Court of Common Pleas, Cuyahoga County, Case No. 914, 379. Memorandum of Opinion; 1974; Court of Appeals of Ohio, Cuyahoga County, Nos. 33583, 33657).

There is no necessary conflict between the contract in question and the Civil Service laws of the state. The contracting out of a governmental service formerly performed by public employees does not violate the rights of civil service employees.

- 181 University of Cincinnati; Public Service Employees, AFSCME v. University of Cincinnati. (Ohio Court of Common Pleas) 87-LRRM-3223 to 25.

Court rules that union representing municipal hospital employees has no right to appeal to civil service commission regarding layoffs since Ohio statute provides this right only to employees. No. A-730872 (Aug. 15, 1973).

- 182 University of Cincinnati; Public Employees Council, AFSCME v. University of Cincinnati. (Ohio Court of Appeals) 87-LRRM-3226 to 27.

Court maintains that, pursuant to Ohio Statute, only employees have the right to appeal decisions of civil service commission, not their bargaining agent. No. CA-73479 (May 28, 1974).

COURT CASES - Oregon

- 183 Palen v. Oregon State Board of Higher Education. (525 p. 2d 1047; 1974).

The state court of appeals held that a state administrative regulation providing that cause for dismissal includes failure of an employee to perform his responsibilities adequately, as judicially interpreted, was not void for vagueness; that the board's findings that the employee in question had made false accusations of improper behavior against other employees, which were supported by substantial evidence, constituted cause for termination; that the board's finding that the employee had refused to comply with directions from his supervisor, which was supported by substantial evidence, constituted cause for termination.

COURT CASES - Pennsylvania

- 184 Albert Einstein Medical Center v. Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board. (Pennsylvania Court of Common Pleas) 86-LRRM-2440 to 44.

PLRB held warranted in finding that hospital interns, residents, and clinical fellows are "public employees" within meaning of Pennsylvania Public Employee Relations Act (SLL 48:221), even though part of relationship between these personnel and hospital is educational. Nos. 381 August Term 1972, 5852 May Term 1972, and 4217 June Term 1972 (Aug. 30, 1973).

- 185 Clarion State College; Appel Media, Inc. v. Clarion State College. (327 A. 2d 420; 1974).

The Commonwealth Court of Pennsylvania held that a contractor was not entitled to recover the full contract price for the installation of a television distribution system at a state college where he had been given a reasonable time to complete the contract by correcting the deficiencies or to have the rejected work removed and replaced; that he was not relieved of his responsibility to meet certain performance levels because the job became more difficult than originally anticipated since sections of the specifications should have alerted him to the grounding problem.

COURT CASES - Pennsylvania (cont'd)

- 186 University of Pittsburgh; Western Psychiatric Institute and Clinic of University of Pittsburgh and Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. (Commonwealth Court of Pennsylvania) 1974-GERR-595:B-3 to B-4.

Court upholds PLRB's determination finding a unit of WPIC's non-professional employees appropriate for bargaining purposes, thereby rejecting the employer's appeal for an all-inclusive unit of professionals and non-professionals. However, a second vote should be held because of illegal electioneering. No. 1616 C.D., 1973 (December 20, 1974).

- 187 Washington and Jefferson College; Washington and Jefferson College v. Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board. (55 Dauph Co. 182; 1944).

The college presented a bill of complaint seeking to restrain the Pennsylvania LRB from applying the provisions of the state labor relations act to it or its employees. The court ruled that the state legislature had intended the act to apply exclusively to industrial disputes and that no evidence had been presented to show that the college was engaged in an industrial activity.

COURT CASES - Texas

- 188 "Maids and Janitors Must be Paid Same Wages Under EPA." NACUBO, College and University Officer, 8(12):6, June 1975.

The U.S. Court of Appeals has affirmed the decision of a lower court in the case of Brennan v. Houston Endowment Company, holding that maids and janitors must be paid the same wages even though their jobs are not exactly alike.

COURT CASES - Washington

- 189 Pape v. Armstrong. (Washington Supreme Court, 47 Wn. 2d 480, 287 p. 2d 1018; 1955).

The governing board of the state university established a compulsory retirement plan for non-academic employees. They were told that the money contributed by the university became their own property. Certain employees elected to withdraw from the university plan and transfer to the state employee retirement system. In an action to determine their rights, the state supreme court held that it would be unlawful diversion of state funds to permit such employees to receive the contributions made by the university.

COURT CASES - Wyoming

Given a finding of a violation of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, back pay should be denied only for reasons that, if applied generally, would not frustrate the central purposes of Title VII of eradicating discrimination throughout the economy and making persons whole for injuries suffered through past discriminations, the U.S. Supreme Court holds. The absence of bad faith on the part of an employer or union is not a sufficient reason for denying back pay to discriminatees, the court states, but a denial may be justified on the ground of laches. - 356 University of Oregon Medical School. "An Appropriate Bargaining Unit for the Registered Radiological Technicians at the U. of O. Medical School." Van Natta's Reporter, C-55, Sept. 23, 1971.

Unit of radiological technicians is found inappropriate for collective bargaining purposes since it is lacking in "significant problems which can be negotiated and adjusted without regard to the other employees of the employer," and since the establishment of this group as a separate unit could lead to unit fragmentation that would be inimical to stable labor relations. On file NCSCBHE.

- 357 University of Oregon Medical School. Van Natta's Reporter, No. 73, June 28, 1971.

Suspension of animal caretaker was taken in good faith and for cause, and Board recommends that the suspension be sustained. On file NCSCBHE.

The grievance, as worded, is not subject to arbitration and the present complaint to the Board is dismissed, without prejudice.

The collective bargaining agreement does not rule out amendments, and proceedings to arbitration upon stipulation.

Recommended that Board enter an order finding that all LPN's employed by U. of O. Board rules that employers did not fail to bargain in good faith on wages. A discussion was held when employers maintained they could not bargain on wages because they believed bargaining on the subject had been preempted by the legislature by the passage of HB 3047 (or Laws 1971, Ch. 558) and the related Budget Report of the Joint Committee on Ways and Means. SLRB DECISIONS - New York

- 421 Columbia University and BSEIU. (Case No. SE-9232, Decision No. 2552, August 2, 1943.) Decisions and Orders of NYSLRB, 6:588-600, 1943.

Building Service employees in a commercial loft building operated for profit by Columbia University were not found to be employees of an educational corporation within the meaning of the Act, and the SLRB directed an election to determine whether or not said employees desired representation by BSEIU.

In 1945, the Court of Appeals held that these employees, regardless of the type of work they were performing, were excluded from application of the Act by the express language of Section 715, because they were employees of an educational association or corporation (Trustees of Columbia University in the City of New York et al. v. Herzog, et al., 295 NY 605, affirming 269 App. Div. 24, reversing 181 Misc. 903).

In 1946, Section 715 was amended, thereby affording such employees protection by the Act (Laws of 1946, Chapter 463).

- 422 Long Island College Hospital and Hospital Division, BSEIU, and Maintenance Division of the Building and Construction Trades Council. (Case Nos. SE-37117, 38602, July 6, 1964, 27-SLRB-No. 91.) Decisions and Orders of the NYSLRB, 27:405-418, 1964.

- 423 Long Island College Hospital and Hospital and Allied Service Employees Union, SEIU. (Case No. SU-43142, June 30, 1971, 34-SLRB-No. 48.) Decisions and Orders of NYSLRB, 34:324-337, 1971.

Board ordered Long Island College Hospital to cease and desist from refusing to bargain with Hotel and Allied Service Employees Union, SEIU, as the exclusive bargaining representative of all full-time and regular part-time employees in the maintenance of plant and engineering department, and ordered that the certification of representative [Dec. No. 11210] be extended one year.

- 424 New York Medical College and Drug and Hospital Union. (Case No. SE-44325, Feb. 9, 1971, 34-SLRB-No. 6.) Decisions and Orders of NYSLRB, 34:45-49, 1971.

Board directed election among all full-time and regular part-time employees in appropriate unit to determine whether or not they desire to be represented for the purposes of collective bargaining by Drug and Hospital Union.

- 425 New York Medical College and Guild of Professional and Technical Hospital Employees. (Case No. SE-44620, Feb. 18, 1972, 35-SLRB-No. 10.) Decisions and Orders of NYSLRB, 35:92-96, 1972.

Direction of a new election among all full-time and regular part-time supervisory and assistant supervisory technical employees to determine whether or not they desire to be represented for the purposes of collective bargaining by Guild of Professional and Technical Hospital Employees. The old election was set aside since the employer did not afford employees adequate notice of the election, with the result that at least two eligible employees did not vote.

Petition to represent employees in steam plant operated by university is dismissed. Although a portion of the steam produced is sold commercially, the university is the primary user of the steam and, therefore, the employees are precluded from protection by Section 715 of the Act.

GLOSSARY

A:

Administrative law judge - Official who conducts hearings and makes recommendations to the NLRB or other government agency. (Formerly called a trial or hearing examiner.)

Affirmative order - Command issued by a labor relations board requiring the persons found to have engaged in unfair labor practices to take such steps as will, so far as possible undo the effect of such practices.

Agency Shop - Provision of a collective bargaining agreement which requires that all employees in the bargaining unit who do not join the employer organization pay a fixed amount, usually the equivalent of union dues, as a condition of employment to help defray the organization's expenses as bargaining representative.

Agent - Person acting for an employer or an union; act of the agent implicates the principal for whom the agent acts in the manner of unfair labor practices or of conduct subject to court action whether or not specifically authorized or approved.

Agreement, Collective Bargaining - A written agreement (contract) arrived at as the result of negotiation between an employer or a group of employers and an employee organization or group of organizations. It usually contains such provisions as the conditions of employment (wages, fringes, hours of work, etc.) and the procedures to be used in settling disputes during the term of the contract.

A: (Cont'd.)

American Arbitration Association (The) - (AAA) is a private, non-profit organization which offers services and facilities for voluntary arbitration. It is an administrative agency solely, never acting as arbitrator. It maintains panels from which arbitrators may be selected, and it provides administrative personnel and procedures for cases being arbitrated under its rules.

Annual Wages - Sometimes used in a general sense to refer to total earnings received during a year; more particularly used in connection with plans whereby workers are guaranteed a minimum amount of wages or employment each year.

Anticertification strike - Strike designed to force an employee to cease recognizing a union which has been certified as bargaining agent and to recognize the striking union instead. This is an unfair labor practice under the Taft-Hartley Act as to which a court injunction must be asked if it is believed that a complaint should be issued.

Anti-injunction Law (Norris-LaGuardia Act) - An act passed in 1932 which (a) regulated the issuance of injunctions by federal courts in labor disputes by prohibiting the enjoining of certain acts and by laying down certain conditions which must be satisfied before other acts can be enjoined; (b) makes yellow-dog contracts unenforceable; (c) specifies that no union officer shall be held responsible for acts committed during a labor dispute unless there is clear proof he authorized such act; (d) provides for trial by jury of any person charged with contempt of court in a case arising under the act except contempts committed in and near the presence of the court.

Anti-strikebreaking Act (Byrnes Act) - A federal law passed in 1936 which prohibits the interstate transportation of "any person who is employed or is to be employed for the purpose of obstructing or interfering by force or threats with the peaceful picketing by employees during a labor controversy, or the exercise by employees of any of the rights of self-organization or collective bargaining."

Antitrust Laws - Federal and state statutes to protect trade and commerce from unlawful restraints and monopolies. For many years, they were used to restrict union activities such as strikes, picketing, and boycotts. In recent years, however, their use in labor cases has been limited by statute and judicial interpretation.

Arbitration - The process of referring disputes between employers and employees, (or between two rival unions) to the decision of impartial adjudicators. While an arbitrator's decision is legally binding, arbitration differs from judicial process in several important respects: (a) the disputants have voluntarily agreed to refer the matter to arbitration and have themselves selected the arbitrator; (b) while the arbitrator holds hearings, these are usually much less formal than court proceedings. Also, the arbitrator does not rely solely upon the presentations at these hearings; if he deems it necessary he may make independent investigations.

Disputes as to "rights" are adjudicable under the laws or agreements on which the rights are based, and are readily adaptable to settlement by arbitration. Disputes as to "interests," on the other hand, involve questions of policy which, for lack of predetermined standards, are not generally regarded as justiciable or arbitrable.

Area Agreement - An employer-union agreement which covers all or most of the establishments and workers in a given industry within a geographical region, usually more extensive than a city or metropolitan center. Unlike an association agreement it is signed individually by each employer concerned.

Assessments - A monthly, annual, or single charge levied by the union on each of its members for a special purpose not covered by regular dues. Rules regarding the levying of assessments are found in union constitutions and by-laws.

Association Agreement - An agreement negotiated and signed by an employers' association on behalf of its members, with a union or a joint board representing several unions. An association agreement may cover all or most of the employers within an industry throughout the country or in a single city or locality.

Automatic Wage Adjustment - A plan whereby wage rates are raised or lowered according to an established formula in response to other specified changes such as changes in the cost of living, prevailing wages, business profits, or prices. Usually refers to wage levels throughout the plant, although it may refer to a system of increasing employees' wages according to their individual service records or adjustments in piece rates.

Automatic Wage Progression - A plan by which wage rates of workers in jobs with established rate ranges are increased automatically at set time intervals until the maximum rate for the job is reached. Some plans combine automatic progression up to a specified point (for example, the midpoint) within the range, with discretionary increases up to the maximum based on merit or other factors.

Avoidance of a Forfeiture - If an agreement is susceptible of two constructions, one of which would work a forfeiture and one of which would not, the arbitrator will be inclined to adopt the interpretation that will prevent the forfeiture.

B:

Back Pay - Wages due an employee for past services, usually representing the difference between money already received and a higher amount resulting from a change in wage rates following an arbitrator's decision, enforcement of a legal minimum, or adjustment of piece rates.

Bargaining Representative - An organization which is the representative of an employer or an employee group in the collective bargaining process. The term representative is not limited to individuals, but shall include labor organizations, and individual representatives need not themselves be employed by and the labor organization serving as a representative need not be limited in membership to the employees of, the employer whose employees are represented. This term shall include any organization, agency, or person authorized or designated by a public employer, public employee, group of public employees, or public employee association to act on its behalf and represent it or them.

Such units may be composed of workers in a single craft, or include all or most workers in an entire plant or numerous plants within an area or entire industry.

Base Rate - Under incentive wage systems, the rate for the established task or job standard, production beyond standard bringing extra pay. The base rate usually represents the 100 per cent for measuring the incentive bonus. Base rate is also used to denote the "regular" rate of timework that is established rate per hour for the job exclusive of extras resulting from merit or service increases, overtime or shift differences.

Bonus - Any payment in addition to regular or base wages. It may be in the form of a Christmas bonus or other annual allotment or it may refer to extra rates paid for nightwork, overtime, hazardous work, etc. Also used in connection with incentive wage systems to designate amounts earned in excess of base or guaranteed rates.

Boycott - A concerted effort to withhold and to induce others to withhold the purchase of goods or services produced in a nonunion plant or by an employer accused of objectionable labor practices. It was first used by the tenant farmers of an Irish landlord named Boycott and was later adopted by both British and American organized labor movements as a weapon in labor disputes. At times unions have adopted general boycotts against all unorganized employers in an industry; more generally, however, boycotts are restricted to specific employers who are actively opposing the union.

Although there is no clear line of distinction, the terms "primary" and "secondary" boycott are sometimes used. The latter applies to efforts to induce parties not directly involved in the dispute to refrain from patronizing an "unfair" employer; thus, workers may refuse to handle or work on any materials, equipment or supplies produced or delivered by nonunion workers, or a union may declare a boycott against a retail store which sells a product manufactured in a plant where a dispute is in progress. The 1947 Labor-Management Relations Act declares secondary boycotts to be unlawful.

Bumping - During layoffs, the displacing of junior employees by workers of longer service; sometimes referred as "backtracking."

Business Agent - A person employed by a local union to assist in negotiating agreements with the employer, help settle grievances, and see that both employers and members observe the terms of the agreement. A business agent's duties are similar to those of a union steward but the latter are company employees who continue to work at their regular jobs, while a business agent is a full-time representative of the union. Business agents are most common in the building trades unions.

C:

Card check - Checking union authorization cards signed by employees against employer's payroll to determine whether a union represents a majority of the employer's employees.

C: (Cont'd.)

Checkoff - The practice whereby the employer, by agreement with the union, withholds union dues and assessments from the pay of union members and turns the funds over to the union. The 1947 Labor-Management Relations Act and the state laws permit checkoff only for those employees who individually authorize the employer to make such withholdings.

Closed Shop - An agreement between an employer and a union which specifies that no persons shall be employed who are not members of the union and that all employees must continue to be members in good standing throughout their period of employment. Closed shops were declared illegal by the 1947 Labor-Management Relations Act.

Collective Bargaining (Collective Negotiations) - A method of bilateral decision making in which representatives of the employees and employer determine the conditions of employment of all workers in a bargaining unit through direct negotiation. The bargaining normally results in a written contract which is mutually binding and sets forth wages, grievance procedures, and other conditions of employment to be observed for a stipulated period. Collective bargaining is to be distinguished from individual bargaining, which applies to negotiations between an individual employee and the employer.

Collective bargaining contract - Formal agreement over wages, hours, and conditions of employment entered into between an employer or group of employers and one or more unions representing employees of the employers.

Community of Interest - A factor to be considered in determining whether employees should be grouped together as an appropriate bargaining unit. Community of interest guidelines includes: (1) Similar working conditions and fringe benefits; (2) Similar job responsibilities; (3) Desires of the employees; (4) History of collective bargaining; (5) Common, centralized supervision; (6) Common work site; (7) Common skills or educational requirements; (8) Government structure; (9) Extent of interchange or transfer among employees; (10) Absence of substantial actual or potential conflict of interest among employees.

Consent election - Election held by a labor board after informal hearing in which various parties agree on terms under which the election is to be held.

Constructive discharge - Unfavorable treatment of employee marked for discharge so that employee will "voluntarily" resign.

Consultation - The process through which the employer seeks the opinions and suggestions of employees and employee organizations in the formulation and implementation of policies which are likely to affect their working conditions. Consultation provides employees a greater opportunity to participate in the development of policies which are of concern to them, but it is not in the nature of a negotiating session in which two equal parties arrive at a mutually acceptable decision. The employer maintains his management prerogatives and makes the final decisions.

Contract-bar rules - Rules applied by the NLRB in determining when an existing contract between an employer and a union will bar a representation election sought by rival union.

Contracting - A system of having portions of the manufacturing processes sublet to contractors; common in the clothing and automobile industries.

Correctly termed Consumers Price Index or C. P. I.

Craft Employee - Any employee who is engaged with his helpers or apprentices in a manual pursuit requiring the exercise of craft skills which are normally acquired through a long and substantial period of training or a formal apprenticeship and which in their exercise call for a high degree of judgment and manual dexterity, one or both, and for ability to work with a minimum of supervision. The term shall also include an apprentice or helper who works under the direction of a journeyman craftsman and is in a direct line or succession in that craft.

Craft Union - A labor organization whose jurisdiction is limited to one or several allied skilled trades.

Deauthorization election - Election held by the NLRB under the Taft-Hartley Act to determine whether employees wish to deprive their union bargaining agent of authority to bind them under a union-shop contract.

Decertification - A procedure for removing the designation of an employee organization as the certified bargaining representative. This is done after a petition alleging that the organization no longer represents a majority of the employees if the organization still claims to be the the majority representative of said employees.

De Minimis Rule - In denying grievances, arbitrators sometimes apply the rule of de minimis non curat lex, under which trifling or immaterial matter will not be taken into account. Often in applying this principle the arbitrator concludes that the action complained of is such a slight departure from what is generally required by the agreement that the action must be viewed either as a permissible exception or as not constituting an injury at all.

Application of the de minimis rule has been rejected where the amount has been small but the principle large.

de novo (de no 'vo) - Anew; over again; a second time.

Disability Insurance - Insurance plans which cover nonoccupational connected sickness and accidents.

Discharge - Involuntary dismissal of an employee for cause. A discharged employee, unlike one laid off, loses his seniority rights to re-employment.

D: (Cont'd.)

Dismissal Wage - Payment by the employer of a sum of money to an employee who is permanently and involuntarily laid off through no fault of his own; usually based on length of service and in the form either of a lump sum payment or weekly payments equivalent to a specified per cent of wages for a given number of weeks.

Dispute - A controversy between an employer and employees (or union) that is sufficiently serious to be referred to an arbitrator or government agency for settlement or to threaten or cause a work stoppage. Sometimes used as synonymous to strike or lockout but more frequently given the broader connotation to include threatened as well as actual strikes. (See also Strike)

Domination - Control exercised by an employer over a union of his employees.

Down Grading - The reassignment of workers to tasks with lower skill requirements with lower rates of pay. May occur when there is a change in products or in methods of production; also during periods of reduction of work force through the bumping process.

Escalator Clause - A provision found in many collective bargaining agreements which is designed to keep the "real income" of the worker reasonably stable during the term of the agreement in the face of price fluctuations. It provides for periodic wage adjustments to reflect changes in the Consumer Price Index or other measures of living costs. Downward as well as upward adjustments are permitted, though there usually is a stated floor below which wages may not be reduced.

Escape period - A period, normally 15 days, during which employees may resign from a union so as not to be bound to continue membership under membership-maintenance agreements.

Exclusive Representative - The employee organization certified to represent a majority of the employees in an appropriate bargaining unit and designated as the collective bargaining agent for all employees in the unit, both members and nonmembers.

Expressio unius est exclusio alterius - Frequently arbitrators apply the principle that to expressly include one or more of a class in a written instrument must be taken as an exclusion of all others. To expressly state certain exceptions indicates that there are no other exceptions. To expressly include some guarantees in an agreement is to exclude other guarantees.

The hazards of this rule of construction, known as expressio unius est exclusio alterius, in some instances leads parties to use general rather than specific language, or to follow a specific enumeration with the statement that the clause is not to be restricted necessarily to the things specifically listed.

F:

Fact-Finding - Investigation of an unresolved labor-management negotiation dispute by an impartial individual, board, or panel. Fact finders are usually appointed by a labor relations agency by the parties themselves, or, at the request of the parties, by the American Arbitration Association. Fact finders issue reports, which may be made public, which describe the issues in the dispute and frequently make recommendations for their solution. The recommendations are not binding.

Fair employment practice - Term applied in some statutes to conduct which does not contravene prohibitions against discrimination in employment because of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.

Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service - The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service (FMCS) basic arbitration function has come to be the maintenance of a roster from which the Service can nominate arbitrators to the parties and the suggesting of certain procedures and guides that the Service believes will enhance the acceptability of arbitration as an alternative to the use of economic force in the industrial arena.

Field Examiner - An employee of the National Labor Relations Board whose primary duties are to conduct certification elections and to conduct preliminary investigations of unfair labor practice charges.

Free Rider - A union term for a worker who does not belong to a union who nevertheless receives the benefits derived from a union negotiated contract or other union activity.

Functus officio - The authority and jurisdiction of arbitrators are entirely terminated by the completion and delivery of an award. They have thereafter no power to recall the same, to order a rehearing, to amend, or to "interpret" in such manner as may be regarded as authoritative. But they may correct clerical mistakes or obvious errors of arithmetical computation.

The general common law rule is also the apparent basis for the following provision in the Code of Ethics and Procedural Standards for Labor-Management Arbitration:

After the award has been rendered, the arbitrator should not issue any clarification or interpretation thereof, or comments thereon, except at the request of both parties, unless the agreement provides therefor.

G:

General Strike - A widespread sympathetic strike in which workers attached to various industries and unions participate, in contrast to a general industry strike which is confined to one union or one industry even though plants may be widely scattered over the country.

Good-faith bargaining - The type of bargaining an employer and a majority union must engage in to meet their bargaining obligation under the Taft-Hartley Act. The parties are required to meet at reasonable times and to confer in good faith with respect to wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment. But neither party is required to agree to a proposal or to make a concession.

Grievance - A grievance is that which the parties to a particular collective agreement say it is. Such a definition, of course, does no more than apprise one of the fact that labor relations authorities disagree widely as to the precise meaning of the term and that collective agreements reflect this lack of accord. The term connotes conflict and irritation, and thus could be defined as any "gripe" or any type of complaint by an employee or a union against the employer or by an employer against his employee or the union. It is generally understood, however, that disputes involving demands for changes in the terms of a collective bargaining agreement ("interests" disputes) and disputes arising out of representation issues are not grievances.

Grievance committee - Committee designated by a union to meet periodically with the management to discuss grievances that have accumulated.

G: (Cont'd.)

Gross National Product - The total value of all the goods and services produced in the nation as determined by the current prices paid for them. The GNP is usually computed on a yearly basis, and, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics in 1970 the GNP stood at over 950 billion dollars.

Guaranteed Annual Wage (GAW) Plan - A plan whereby an employer agrees to provide his employees a guaranteed minimum of employment or income for a year. Not widely practiced, GAW has, nonetheless, been an important bargaining issue in recent years. Unions argue that GAW plans add significantly to income and employment stability. Management argues, on the other hand, that GAW does not take into account the fluctuating demand for goods and would add significantly to the risk of investment, because wages would have to be paid even if the investment proved unprofitable.

Guaranteed Employment - A plan established by an employer or through employer-union negotiations, whereby employees are assured a specified number of days' work per week or weeks per year or the equivalent in wages.

Guaranteed Wage Rate - The base rate or other established minimum which is guaranteed under most incentive wage systems regardless of actual output.

H:

Hold-back Pay - Any wages withheld by employer; most generally used in connection with the two or three days' wages earned between the end of the pay period and payday.

I:

Illegal Strike - Technically, a work stoppage forbidden by law because specified legal procedures have not been followed prior to the stoppage, or because of an injunction forbidding the stoppage. In union parlance, the term does not necessarily relate to a strike prohibited by a law but refers to a stoppage by union members which has not been authorized by the proper union officials or voted upon in accordance with the union's rules.

I: (Cont'd.)

Immunity clause - Clause in a contract designed to protect a union from suits for contract violation growing out of unauthorized strikes. A typical clause would limit recourse of the parties to the grievance procedure of the contract.

Impartial Chairman - An outside person employed jointly by the union and employer (or employers), usually for a definite period of time, to assist in negotiating and administering the collective agreements. During the process of the agreement negotiations, the impartial chairman serves as a mediator or consultant whose function is to get the two parties mutually to agree upon the terms to be included in the contract; after the contract is negotiated, it is the function of the impartial chairman to see that both parties observe the terms of the contract and to make final decisions when questions arise as to interpretation or application.

Impasse - That point in the negotiations at which either party has determined that no further progress in reaching agreement can be made. Technical impasse refers to that point at which agreement is supposed to be reached and has not, but the parties are continuing to bargain in good faith. In public employment impasses are often resolved by the intervention of a neutral third party, such as a mediator or fact finder.

Improper Practice - Conduct prohibited by the statute or administrative regulation, e.g., bribery by employers and labor relations consultants of union officials and conflicts of interest among union officials. The term is also used in public employment relations as a substitute for unfair labor practice.

Incentive Wages - A method of wage payment by which earnings fluctuate more or less in accordance with actual output, thus providing an immediate financial stimulus to increased effort and output.

Independent Union - A union that is not affiliated with the AFL-CIO. The United Auto Workers and the Teamsters are examples. There are also smaller independent unions confined to a single plant or company. Independent unions are not to be confused with company unions.

International Union - In this country "International" refers to unions having members in Canada as well as in the United States.

Intervention - After a petition for certification has been filed, other employee organizations are permitted to intervene in the proceeding to resolve a question concerning the representation of employees if it has been submitted a showing of interest. If intervention is permitted, the intervenor becomes a party for all purposes and may appear on the ballot.

J:

Job Classification - The money value (base rate) attached to a job on the basis of a formal method of evaluation.

Job Evaluation - The qualitative rating of jobs to determine their position in a job hierarchy according to skill, experience, responsibility, and other special requirements, for purposes of determining relative wage rates.

Jurisdiction - Right claimed by union to organize class of employees with competition from any other union; province within which any agency or court is authorized to act.

Jurisdictional Disputes - A dispute (which may or may not develop into a work stoppage) between two or more unions concerning the right to gain or retain the control of jobs in a particular trade, or the assignment of workers to these jobs. Sometimes confused with a rival union dispute but basically the issue is very different. The latter involves the question as to which one of two or more unions shall represent the workers already employed in a plant or other bargaining unit. In a jurisdictional dispute the issue is which group of workers, that are members of which union, shall have the right to be employed on the jobs in question.

Jurisdictional Strikes - Some unions engage in jurisdictional strikes. In such strikes, two labor unions compete for control of the same workers.

Judicial review - Proceedings before courts for enforcement or setting aside of orders of labor relations boards. Review is limited to conclusions of law, excluding findings of fact unless these are unsupported by evidence.

K:

L:

The practice of labor grading is common in large plants having a multitude of different kinds of jobs, the purpose being to simplify the wage structure and facilitate transfers of personnel.

Labor Laws - Usually applied to federal or state legislation aimed at improving the conditions of workers or protecting the rights of labor unions; any legislation pertaining to workers and working conditions.

Labor Management Institute (The) - (a Division of the American Arbitration Association) offers services as a neutral secretariat in arranging for bargaining and advises parties on techniques for resolution of conflicts that have been developed through experience in other industries and in other parts of the country. The Institute is available to help parties evolve specialized machinery to solve their particular problem.

Labor-Management Relations Act (Taft-Hartley Act) - A federal statute passed in 1947 amending the Wagner Act of 1935. Among the important provisions of the law are: (1) the closed shop is outlawed; (2) the government is authorized to seek an injunction preventing any work stoppage for 80 days in a strike that imperils the nation's health and welfare; (3) unions are prohibited from using union funds in connection with national elections; (4) union officers must swear that they are not communists before the union can be certified (modified by the Landrum-Griffin Act); (5) unions must file financial statements with the Department of Labor and the membership; (6) the states are authorized to pass right-to-work laws.

The law also spelled out certain unfair labor practices on the part of unions.

Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act (Landrum-Griffin Act) - A federal statute, passed in 1959, designed to rid unions of corruption and to ensure internal union democracy. It contains a "bill of rights" for union members, regulations concerning trusteeships, conditions to be observed in elections of union officers, and a definition of the fiduciary obligations of unions officers. The law also forbids hot cargo clauses; tightens the Taft-Hartley restrictions against secondary boycotts; outlaws certain types of picketing; gives state agencies jurisdiction over disputes the NLRB has declined to handle (no-man's land disputes); drops the non-communist affidavit provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act and substitutes a provision that communists cannot hold union office, and former communists must be out of the party for at least five years before holding office. Convicted felons also are barred from holding union office within five years after serving a prison term.

Labor Relations - A general term used in connection with any or all matters of mutual concern to employers and employees. Sometimes given a more limited meaning to indicate the kind of recognition in effect between an employer and union.

More precisely, such neglect or omission to assert a right, taken in conjunction with lapse of time and other circumstances causing prejudice to an adverse party, as will operate as a bar to relief in equity.

Layoff - Most frequently used in connection with dismissal from a job because of lack of work although sometimes used to refer to a temporary suspension for disciplinary reasons in contrast to a permanent discharge. Laid-off employees usually retain seniority rights to re-employment for more or less extended periods of time.

Leave of Absence - Allowed time off from a job with the right of reinstatement and without loss of seniority.

Local - Group of organized employees holding a charter from a national or international labor organization.

Lockout - Closing down of a business as a form of economic pressure upon employees to enforce acceptance of employer's terms, or to prevent whipsawing where union bargains with an association of employers.

Longevity Pay - Wages based on length of service; may be in the form of graduated wage rates or an extra bonus or per cent added to regular or base earnings.

M:

Management Prerogatives - Rights that employers feel are exclusively their own and hence not subject to collective bargaining and negotiations. These rights are often expressly reserved to employers in statute, agreements, or memoranda of understanding. They often include the right to determine the services to be performed to maintain efficiency and order, and to hire and direct the work force.

Management-rights clause - Collective bargaining contract clause that expressly reserves to management certain rights and specifies that the exercise of those rights shall not be subject to the grievance procedure or arbitration.

Marginal Worker - A worker who by reason of age, mediocre skill, or other reason, is able to obtain employment only during periods when the labor supply is limited.

Master Agreement - A union agreement signed by the dominant employer or several of the largest employers in an industry, or by an employers' association which includes most of the employers in the industry.

Mediation - Offer of good offices to parties to a dispute as an equal friend of each; differs from conciliation in that the mediator makes proposals for settlement of the dispute that have not been made by either party.

Merit Increase - A wage increase granted to an individual worker because of his improved efficiency or quality of work in contrast to a longevity increase based on length of service, or a promotion increase due to a transfer to a more highly paid job, or an increase resulting from a general rise in wage levels.

Modified Union Shop - An agreement between an employer and a union requiring all present members to retain their membership and all new employees to become members, but does not require employees who were not members at the time the agreement was signed to join the union.

More Favorable Terms - An agreement by a union that will not grant more advantageous terms (for example, lower wage rates) to any competitor of the employer signing the agreement.

Multiemployer Bargaining - Collective bargaining covering more than one company in a given industry. Multi-employer bargaining takes various forms: industry-wide bargaining- bargaining which results in a single master agreement negotiated by all employers in an industry and one or more unions representing their workers throughout an entire industry (the usual form for the coal industry and the men's clothing industry); regional bargaining- bargaining between a union and representatives of an industry in a given region, e.g., the southwestern part of the U. S. (the usual form for over-the-road trucking, lumber, and maritime industries); area-wide bargaining- bargaining between a union and industry representatives on a local or city level (the usual form for construction, bakery, and laundry industries); pattern bargaining- bargaining in which key terms reached in a settlement in one bargaining unit are closely followed by other companies. (U. S. Steel and General Motors often set the pattern in the steel and automotive industries, respectively.)

N:

National Academy of Arbitrators - A nonprofit, professional, and honorary association of arbitrators. While many experienced arbitrators are included among the NAA's members, the Academy is not an agency for the selection of arbitrators.

National Emergency Strike - Strikes which are not specifically forbidden by the Labor-Management Relations Act but which may be enjoined for up to 80 days if, in the opinion of the President, they threaten the national health or safety.

N: (Cont'd.)

National Labor Relations Act (Wagner Act) - Federal law passed in 1935 which had the effect of strengthening the general position of organized labor. The law guaranteed workers the right to organize and join unions, to bargain collectively, and to act in concert in pursuit of their objectives. It further provided for secret certification elections, and gave the union the right to be the exclusive bargaining agent for all workers in a bargaining unit.

The law declared the following to be unfair labor practices: (1) management support of company unions; (2) discharge of workers for union activities; (3) discrimination against workers for making complaints to the NLRB; (4) refusal to bargain collectively with employee representatives.

The law also created the National Labor Relations Board to administer the law.

National Union - A union having broad regional coverage with numerous affiliated locals.

Negotiating Committee - Committee of a union or an employer selected to negotiate a collective bargaining contract.

Noncontributory Welfare Plan - A health or pension program for the benefit of employees which is financed entirely by the employer.

Nonproduction Bonus - An extra payment to an employee based on a factor other than the output of the worker, such as a Christmas bonus, attendance bonus, or payment in reward for waste elimination.

Noscitur a sociis - Definite meaning may be given to ambiguous or doubtful words by construing them in the light of the text. It is an old maxim which summarizes the rule both of language and of law that the meaning of words may be controlled by those with which they are associated.

O:

Office of Employee Relations - An office established by a governor to ensure uniform state policy regarding relationships with employee organizations representing state employees.

O: (Cont'd.)

Old-Age and Survivors Insurance - The law established a compulsory old-age insurance system, to which both the employee and the employer contribute equally. Originally, the employee and employer each paid 1 1/2% of the employee's weekly salary up to $3000 per year. Upon retiring from work, following the age of 65, the worker is entitled to monthly benefit payments. These payments ranged from a minimum of $10 to a maximum of $85 per month, and are determined on the basis of the individual's salary, years at work and number of dependents. In case of death to the insured before the age of 65, benefits are paid to his widow, children or other dependents.

Open-End Agreement - A collective bargaining agreement which has no fixed termination date but which is in effect indefinitely, subject to a specified number of days' notice by either party that it considers the agreement at an end.

Open Shop - Theoretically, a shop where both union and non-union members are employed. Before union discrimination became illegal, the so-called "open shop" campaigns conducted by employers were in reality an effort to keep unions and union members out of their plants.

Organizational picketing - Picketing of an employer in an attempt to induce the employees to join the union.

Outlawed strike - Strike forbidden by law.

Overtime - Time worked beyond the standard established by law, employer-union agreements or company regulations, for which "penalty" rates, that is, higher than regular wage rates, are paid. Sometimes used to refer to the wages paid rather than the actual overtime worked, for example, referring to two hours' actual work at time and one-half rate as being three hours' overtime.

P:

Package Increase - A combination of benefits including wage increases.

Pattern Wage Increase - A uniform increase awarded throughout an industry or industries even though the collective bargaining is done on a company by company basis.

P: (Cont'd.)

Penalty Rates - Commonly applied to extra rates paid for overtime and for Sunday and holiday work as well as hazardous or onerous work; also sometimes used to designate higher rates for nightwork, although more commonly these are referred to as shift bonus or shift differential rates.

"Penalty rate" is used interchangeably with "premium rate," although employees are prone to use the former to apply to Sunday and overtime work which they seek to discourage, in contrast to reward or premium wages for duties which must be performed but which, because of their inconvenient hours or unpleasant or hazardous nature, deserve extra compensation.

Permissive Wage Adjustment - Provisions in employer-union contracts allowing either party to re-open the question of wage rates whenever any one or a number of specified changes in conditions have taken place either inside or outside the plant, for example, changes in cost of living or general economic conditions or changes in methods of doing the work.

Permit Card - A card issued by the union to a nonmember, which permits him to accept temporary employment with an employer who has a union shop contract.

Permit Fee - Money charged by a union to a nonunion applicant, which permits him to accept temporary employment on a "union job."

Perquisites - Goods or services furnished by an employer which could be considered as an addition to wages; for example, free meals or lodging, right to buy goods from the employer at a discount, etc.

Picketing - A person or persons posted by a labor organization at the approach of a work place during a labor dispute for the purpose of (a) informing the public and employees that a dispute exists, (b) persuading workers to join or continue the strike or boycott, (c) preventing persons from entering or going to work.

Mass picketing is a parading of large numbers before the entrance and is used for its dramatic effect or when considerable resistance from the employer or nonparticipating employees is anticipated.

Cross picketing denotes picketing by two or more rival unions, each of whom claims to represent the employees of the establishment.

Preferential Shop - An agreement between an employer and union whereby union members are afforded preference over nonmembers in some aspect of employment; for example, the last to be laid off and the first to be rehired.

Premium Pay - Various ascribed to extra payments over normal wage rates to which employees are entitled because of work beyond or outside of regular hours, or for output beyond established minimum standards, or for especially hazardous or onerous work.

Probationary Employee - A new employee on a trial basis who is usually not covered by seniority or other protective rules and, under most union-shop arrangements, is not required to join the union.

Productivity - Amount produced in relation to effort or time expended; a measurement of unit output per worker or per man-hours or days worked.

Professional Employee - Any employee whose work is predominantly intellectual and varied in character, involves the consistent exercise of discretion and judgment, and requires knowledge of an advanced nature in the field of physical, biological, or social science, or in the field of learning. (Work is of such a character that the output produced or the result accomplished cannot be standardized in relation to a given period of time.) The term shall also include any employee who has acquired knowledge of an advanced nature in one of the fields described above, and who is performing related work under the supervision of a professional person to qualify himself to become a professional employee as defined herein. The term shall include, but not be limited to, attorneys, physicians, nurses, engineers, architects, teachers, and the various types of physical, chemical and biological scientists.

Employees qualifying as "professional" under Sec. 2(12) of the Taft-Hartley Act may not be included in a unit containing non-professional employees unless the professional employees so elect.

Profit Sharing - A plan by which employees receive a specified proportion of the company's net earnings or of earnings above a specified amount; usually prorated according to employees' service records or other formula and distributed in the form of annual or semiannual bonuses.

P: (Cont'd.)

Progression Wages - Graduated wages, within specified limits for each job, based on length of service or merit ratings in contrast to increased wages resulting from promotions to higher jobs.

Q:

"Quickie" Strike - A spontaneous stoppage of work by a group of employees without the sanction or approval of the union; also known as a wildcat strike.

Quid pro quo (kwid pro kwo) - The consideration for a contract. That which is supplied by one party in consideration of that which is supplied by the other party.

R:

Rank and File - Members of a union other than the officers.

Rate Range - A range of rates for the same job, with specific rates of individual workers within the range determined by merit, length of service, or a combination of merit and length of service.

Rationalization - Sometimes used as synonymous to "scientific management," that is, techniques for internal shop management which decrease costs and improve efficiency; also used in connection with plans and controls for an entire industry, such as cartel arrangements.

Real Wages - The purchasing power of a dollar of wages; that is, money wages in relation to cost of living or price levels.

Recognition - the acceptance by an employer of an employee organization as the majority representative of employees in an appropriate unit. Recognition is a major step in the establishment of a collective bargaining relationship and usually follows an election in which the majority of employees have selected an organization to represent them. Under certain conditions, employers may also voluntarily recognize an organization without an election or official certification.

Reinstatement - Return to employment of persons unlawfully discharged.

R: (Cont'd.)

Re-opening Clause - A provision in a collective bargaining agreement stating the time or the circumstances under which negotiations can be requested prior to the expiration of the contract. Reopenings are usually restricted to specific wage issues and not used for the contract as a whole.

Representation Proceeding - A procedure for the purpose of determining the majority representative of employees, if any, in an appropriate collective negotiating unit or a question or controversy concerning the representation of employees for the purpose of negotiations.

Res Judicata (rez ju-di-ka'ta) - Literally, the thing has been decided, been adjudicated. The principle that an existing final judgment rendered upon the merits, without fraud or collusion, by a court of competent jurisdiction, is conclusive of rights, questions and facts in issue, as to the parties and their privies, in all other actions in the same or any other judicial tribunal of concurrent jurisdiction.

Restraint and coercion - Term used in Sec. 8(b) (1) of Taft-Hartley Act making it an unfair labor practice for a union to restrain or coerce employees in the exercise of their rights to join unions or to engage in union activities or in the exercise of their rights to refrain from joining unions or engaging in such activities.

Retroactive Pay - A delayed wage payment for work done previously at a lower rate. Income due to workers when a new contract provides for a wage increase for work completed prior to the time the contract goes into effect. Example: a contract signed in June may call for a 10 cent an hour increase beginning the first day of the previous January. To be distinguished from back pay.

Right to work - a term used to describe laws which ban union-security agreements by forbidding contracts making employment conditional on membership or nonmembership in labor organizations.

Right-to-Work Laws - State laws which make it illegal for a collective agreement to contain union shop, maintenance of membership, preferential hiring, or any other clauses calling for compulsory union membership. State legislatures were authorized to pass such laws by the Taft-Hartley Act of 1947. Since that time about twenty states, located mostly in the South and Midwest, have passed right-to-work laws.

Rival Union Dispute - A dispute between two or more unions over the issue of which one shall represent a particular group of workers as their collective bargaining agent. A rival union dispute differs from a jurisdictional dispute in that the latter is concerned with claims to jobs or kinds of work, whereas in a rival union dispute the unions acknowledge no jurisdictional boundaries between them but each is contending for the right to represent the workers on the jobs.

Run-off election - Second election directed by a labor board when the first fails to show more than half the votes recorded for any one choice presented.

S:

Scab - An employee who continues to work during a strike; also a person who accepts employment in a nonunion shop or under nonunion conditions at a time when the union is trying to organize the industry.

Scientific Management - A term used by Frederick Taylor and his successors to refer to those carefully worked out job techniques (by an engineer) designed to decrease costs and improve efficiency, such as plant layout, work scheduling, time and motion study, job analysis and incentive wage systems.

Scope of Bargaining - The actual subject matter which management and employee organizations bring within the area of the collective bargaining agreement.

Secondary Strike - A strike against an employer who uses or sells materials from a struck plant; differs from a sympathetic strike in that there is a business connection between the employers involved in the initial and the secondary strikes.

Seniority - Length of service with an employer or in one branch of business; preference accorded employees on the basis of length of service.

Separability Clause - A stipulation in an employer-union agreement which protects the validity of the remainder of the contract should any particular provision be declared illegal or void for any reason.

Settlement agreement - Terms agreed upon in the settlement of charges before the NLRB without a full-dress hearing, decision, and order. To be binding, such agreements must have the consent of the NLRB.

Shift - A work period in a working schedule which includes more than one set of workers, for example, day and night shifts; term also applied to the workers employed on the shifts, for example, "shift workers." In some industries the term "tour" is more commonly used than shift.

Shop Chairman - A union steward usually chosen by the department stewards from among their own number, although he may be elected by the members within the plant, to serve as chairman over all the stewards in the plant and to deal with top management officials in adjusting matters not settled satisfactorily by the department stewards and foremen.

Showing of interest - Support union must show among employees in bargaining unit before NLRB will process union's election petition. The Board requires a union that is seeking a representation election to make a showing of interest among 30 percent of the employees in the bargaining unit.

Sit-down Strike - A protest stoppage in which the workers involved remain at their work-place in contrast to a strike where workers leave the plant and establish picket lines.

Sliding Scale - Wage rates which are automatically adjusted to changes in the selling price of the commodity produced in accordance with a fixed formula.

Slowdown - A deliberate lessening of work effort for a definite purpose and time. In motive a slowdown is similar to a strike and differs from the latter only in a degree of stoppage involved.

Standard Agreement - A collective agreement prepared by the National union for use by its locals. The purpose of a standard agreement is not only to relieve the locals of the task of drafting their own agreements but also to promote the standardization of working conditions throughout the industry.

Stare Decisis (sta 're de-si 'sis) - The doctrine or principle that decisions should stand as precedents for guidance in cases arising in the future. A strong judicial policy that the determination of a point of law by a court will generally be followed by a court of the same or lower rank in a subsequent case which presents the same legal problem, although different parties are involved in the subsequent case.

State Arbitration Statutes - Are of three general types: (1) general statutes designed primarily for commercial disputes, but some of which may be used for labor disputes; (2) special labor arbitration statutes, which contain some detail as to procedure; and (3) statutes which merely "promote" arbitration by charging a state agency to encourage its use.

Statute of limitations - As applied to unfair labor practices, a provision of the Taft-Hartley Act under which charges are outlawed if based on events more than six months old.

Strike - Concerted cessation of work as a form of economic pressure by employees, usually organized, to enforce acceptance of their terms.

Strike-Breakers - The employer hires other workers, known as strike-breakers or scabs, to fill the jobs of striking workers.

Strike vote - Balloting or canvass on question of calling a strike.

Submission - A submission (sometimes called a "stipulation" or an "agreement to arbitrate") is used where there is no previous agreement to arbitrate. The submission, which must be signed by both parties, describes an existing dispute; it often also names the arbitrator (or the method of appointment) and it sometimes contains considerable detail regarding the arbitrator's authority, the procedure to be used at the hearing, and other matters which the parties wish to control including the specific question(s) the arbitrator is to rule upon.

Superannuated Rate - A rate of pay below the prevailing level or union rate for a worker above a certain age. Some union agreements require the employer to employ a specified ratio of older workers, allowing them to be paid less than the going union rates.

Supervisor - Any individual having authority in the interest of the employer to hire, transfer, suspend, layoff, recall, promote, discharge, assign, reward, or discipline other employees, or responsibility to direct them, or to adjust their grievances, or effectively to recommend such action, if in connection with the foregoing the exercise of such authority is not of a merely routine or clerical nature, but requires the use of independent judgment. Supervisors enjoy no protection of bargaining rights under the NLRA.

Sympathetic Strike - A strike of workers who are not directly concerned with the matter in dispute but have participated in order to demonstrate worker solidarity and thus broaden the group pressure upon the employer against whom there is a strike for a specific cause.

T:

Taft-Hartley Act - The Labor-Management Relations Act of 1947 was sponsored in Congress by Sen. Robert A. Taft (O.) and Rep. Fred A. Hartley (N.J.) and passed over the veto of Pres. Truman. Commonly known as the Taft-Hartley Act it reaffirmed the Wagner Act by guaranteeing the right of workers to form unions and to engage in collective bargaining. The National Labor Relations Board is continued to protect labor's rights.

In contrast to the Wagner Act, however, it lists unfair practices by labor unions including mass picketing and secondary boycotts.

Labor leaders were unanimous in condemning the Taft-Hartley Law. In particular, they were opposed to the outlawing of the closed shop, and the use of the temporary injunction in national welfare strikes.

Under Section 14 (b) (of the Taft-Hartley Act (1947)) states are allowed to pass laws banning the union shop and other union-management agreements that make union membership a condition for keeping a job. Nineteen states had such laws in 1967. (See also Labor-Management Relations Act.)

Take-Home Pay - The amount of pay the worker actually receives in his check. Gross earning minus federal and state income taxes, social security taxes, health insurance premiums, etc.

"Tandem" Wage Increase - An increase automatically given a group of employees as the result of an increase negotiated with another group. For example, a pay increase to office workers similar to that negotiated with production workers.

Taylor, Frederick - An engineer, active during the 1890's and early 1900's, who is commonly considered to be the founder of the "scientific management" movement; a proponent of functionalized management, time and motion study, and a differential piece rate system whereby a worker who accomplished a specified maximum standard is paid a certain rate for each piece and lesser rate per piece if the maximum standard is not accomplished.

Temporary Employee - One who is employed for a short period of time and who therefore does not have seniority rights or other privileges incident to permanent status. Under union-shop agreements may be given a working permit in lieu of union membership.

Terminal Jobs - Jobs which have no promotion possibilities; "blind alley" jobs.

"Trilogy" (1960) - The United States Supreme Court decided three cases dealing with rights arbitrations which have become known as the Trilogy. The cases are:
(1) United Steelworkers of America v. American Manufacturing Co., 80 S.Ct. 1343, 34 LA 559 (1960);
(2) United Steelworkers of America v. Warrior and Gulf Navigation Co., 80 S.Ct. 1347, 34 LA 561 (1960); and
(3) United Steelworkers of America v. Enterprise Wheel and Car Corp. 80 S.Ct. 1358, 34 LA 569 (1960).

When a court is asked to stay or compel arbitration the question of arbitrability ordinarily becomes involved. If such a case is covered by federal law, the court's function is delimited by teachings of the Trilogy. Two of the Trilogy decisions deal with substantive arbitrability (whether the subject matter of the dispute is arbitrable). Some of the significant teachings of these cases may be summarized as follows:

As to compelling arbitration: Unless the parties expressly provide that the arbitrator is to determine arbitrability, the determination rests with the courts (if such issue is presented for judicial determination). The courts must compel arbitration where the party seeking it is making a claim which on its face is governed by the contract, even though the court might feel that the grievance is frivolous or baseless. Doubts over arbitrability should be resolved in the affirmative-arbitration should be compelled unless it may be said with "positive assurance" that the arbitration clause is not susceptible to an interpretation that covers the dispute.

Trilogy (cont.) - As to review and enforcement of awards: The question of interpretation of the agreement is for the arbitrator, and the courts "have no business overruling him because their interpretation of the contract is different from his." However, an award "is legitimate only so long as it draws its essence from the collective bargaining agreement. When the arbitrator's words manifest an infidelity to this obligation, courts have no choice but to refuse enforcement of the award." But the Court also indicated that a court should not reject an award unless it is clear that the arbitrator has exceeded his authority-the Supreme Court is unwilling to "assume" that an arbitrator has "abused the trust the parties confided in him" or that he "has not stayed within the areas marked out for his consideration."

As to the merits of disputes: Courts should not delve into the merits of grievances. The merits are not a subject for court inquiry in actions either to compel arbitration or to enforce awards.

As to modification of awards: The Supreme Court upheld the Court of Appeals' rejection of the early common-law rule that a court action to enforce an award must be demised in its entirety if any deficiency exists in the award. The Supreme Court held that an award need not be set aside for incompleteness merely because the arbitrator neglected to calculate the amount of back pay due grievant; the award was returned to the parties for determination of back pay by arbitration.

Because of the presumption favoring the arbitrability of labor disputes, courts have continued to compel arbitration in most cases where the arbitrability of the dispute has been challenged.

Tripartite Arbitration Board - The tripartite arbitration board, which may be either temporary or permanent, is one made up of one or more members selected by management, an equal number selected by labor, and a neutral member who serves as chairman. The labor and management members generally are partisans and act as advocates for their respective sides. The Code of Ethics for Arbitration does not impose an obligation of strict neutrality upon the party members of tripartite boards.

Trusteeship, Union - Describes a situation in which a national or international union suspends the normal governmental process of a local union and takes over control of the local's assets and the administration of its internal affairs. The constitutions of many international unions authorize international officers to establish trusteeships over local unions in order to prevent corruption, mis-management, and other abuses. The Landrum-Griffin Act of 1959 established controls over the establishment and administration of trusteeships.

U:

Umpire - An outside person employed jointly by the union and the employer, usually for a definite period of time, to whom are referred for final decision disputes over the interpretation or application of provisions of the agreement. Although arbitrator, impartial chairman, referee, and umpire are sometimes used indiscriminately, the latter three are more commonly applied when such persons serve in a permanent capacity as distinguished from an arbitrator who is appointed to settle a particular dispute.

Sometimes the distinction is made between impartial chairman and umpire (or referee), the former serving both as an adviser while the agreement is being negotiated and as an interpreter or arbitrator after the agreement is signed. An umpire, on the other hand, takes no part in agreement negotiations but renders final decisions upon the request of either or both parties on the interpretation and application of an already signed agreement.

Unauthorized strike - A strike by employees contrary to the advice or without the consent of their union.

Unemployment Insurance - The Federal government did not itself undertake an unemployment insurance system, but evolved a plan by which the states would be encouraged to do so. A special payroll tax to finance unemployment insurance was levied by the Federal government on employers only. Ninety percent of the money collected within each state was offered to that state on condition that a satisfactory state unemployment insurance system be established.

Unfair employment practice - Discrimination in employment based on race, color, religion, sex, or national origin. Forbidden by federal and some state laws.

Unfair labor practice - Practice forbidden by the National and several State Labor Relations Acts.

Union - Labor organization.

Union Label - A special label placed upon a product signifies that it has been made by union labor. Unions appeal to their members and the general public to purchase only products bearing union labels.

Union Jurisdiction - The types of work, or entire industry, which a union claims, or which its federated body (A.F.L.-C.I.O) has assigned to it as a basis for its membership. (See Jurisdictional Disputes)

Union-Management Co-operation - In its broadest sense, refers to any peaceful management-union negotiations including bargaining over terms of employment. More commonly the term is given a limited meaning to refer to those jointly sponsored activities which are directed to the improvement and expansion of the business, such as cost savings, improvement in production procedures and quality of output, sales promotion, etc.

Union Security Clauses - Provisions in a collective bargaining agreement designed to secure the status of the employee organization against employers, nonunion employees, and/or raids by competing organizations. Examples of union security clauses are: closed shop, an agreement between union and employer that the employer may hire only union members and retain only union members in the shop (the closed shop was declared illegal by the Taft-Hartley Act in 1947); preferential hiring, an agreement that an employer, in hiring new workers, will give preference to union members; union shop, an agreement that the employer may hire anyone he wants, but all workers must join the union within a specified period of time after being hired and retain membership as a condition of continuing employment; maintenance of membership, a provision in an agreement stating that no worker must join the union as a condition of employment, but all workers who voluntarily join must maintain their memberships for the duration of the contract in order to keep their jobs. Most maintenance-of-membership provisions include an escape clause, setting aside an interval, usually ten days or two weeks, during which members may withdraw from the union without penalty.

Union shop - Arrangement with a union by which employer may hire any employee, union or non-union, but the new employee must join the union within a specified time and remain a member in good standing.

Unit - Shortened form of "unit appropriate for collective bargaining." It consists of all employees entitled to select a single agent to represent them in bargaining collectively.

V:

Vertical Union - A union whose claimed jurisdiction covers all occupations from the production of raw materials to fabricated products. There is no clear line of distinction between a vertical and an industrial union.

Vesting Rights (Vesting, Vested Rights) - Applicable to many pension or retirement plans. Refers to the pension rights which permit employees to terminate employment before attaining retirement age, but without forfeiting accrued pension financed through employer contributions.

W:

Wage Award - The specified wage rates determined by an arbitrator or government agency.

Wage and Hours Act (1938) - This act, also known as the Fair Labor Standards Act, established a minimum wage of 40¢ per hour and a standard work-week of 40 hours for workers in interstate industry. Overtime (work beyond 40 hours) must be paid for at the rate of time and a half. The act also prohibited, with certain exceptions, children under 16 years of age from working in interstate industry. (Congress increased the hourly minimum wage in 1949 to 75¢; in 1955 to $1.00; in 1961 to $1.15; in 1967 to $1.40 with provision for further increase to $1.60 in 1968; $2.00 in 1975.)

Wage Stabilization - Any plan to keep wages in an area or industry at established levels. Used particularly with reference to government plans for preventing inflation during war periods.

Wagner Act - (See National Labor Relations Act.)

Welfare Funds (Union Welfare Funds) - Funds created through collective bargaining to provide welfare benefits for the employees of a number of employers. (See multiemployer bargaining.) Under the terms of the Taft-Hartley Act, such funds usually are administered by trustees representing both employers and unions, respectively. Local building trades unions and the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union are examples of unions with substantial welfare funds. Typically, welfare funds provide health and death benefits similar to those provided by welfare plans. A growing number provide pension benefits, sometimes from separate pension funds. In other instances (as in the United Mine Worker Welfare and Retirement Fund), benefits are paid from the same trust fund.

Welfare and Pension Plans Disclosure Act (Teller Act) - A federal statute passed in 1958 covering all non-governmental welfare and pension plans affecting more than 25 employees. Administrators of the funds must make annual reports to the Secretary of Labor, describing the plan and submitting financial statements. Several states have enacted similar laws.

Welfare Plans - Benefit plans for the employees of a single employer, providing for disability insurance, hospital, medical and surgical protection, and life insurance. Welfare plans originally were financed almost entirely by joint employer-employee contributions. In recent years, the trend has been toward employer-financed plans. (See Welfare Funds.)

Wildcat Strike - A work stoppage, usually spontaneous, by a group of organized employees without the authorization or approval of the employee organization.

Work jurisdiction - Right claimed by union under its charter to have its members and no others engaged in certain work. See Jurisdictional dispute.

Work Load - The quantitative measure of an hour's or a day's performance on a job. The term is usually applied to a standard of output which is supposed to represent reasonably efficient production without risk to health or safety.

Workmen's Compensation - Insurance systems established by law providing weekly cash benefits and medical services to workers who suffer physical injury during the course of their employment, irrespective of carelessness of worker or negligence of employer.

Work permit - Card issued by union having closed shop to show permission that holder, though not a full-fledged union member, may be employed under contract.

W: (Cont'd.)

Work Restriction - A tacit understanding or planned movement among a group of employees to limit output below the standard of efficiency which could be maintained without risk to health and safety. Restriction of output may be (1) a temporary act to gain an immediate definite concession from the employer in which case it takes on the nature of a slowdown strike; (2) an effort to prolong a job and prevent unemployment.

X:

Y:

Z:

Zipper clause - Clause that seeks to close all employment terms for the duration of the labor contract by stating that the agreement is "complete in itself" and "sets forth all terms and conditions" of the agreement.

Center bibliographies include many unpublished articles, court cases, arbitration awards, and PERB decisions which are indicated as available from this library.

Photocopying costs are 20¢ per page, plus handling and postage.

Faculty Collective Bargaining Contract File and Computer System

The Center has a complete file of all current faculty contracts, 211 contracts to date. These include 66 contracts for 4-year institutions and 145 contracts for 2-year institutions.

At the present time some 124 faculty contracts have been input into a full-text computer retrieval system. The Center has developed a set of searches available at lower costs, or individual searches may be requested.

A search printout gives the actual wording of the contract clauses/sections requested, not the usual computer listing of citation and keywords. In these other systems you must then locate the actual reference for the full-text information.

Individual searches can be requested for $100 by subscribers to the Center's complete services. Full membership information will be sent on request. It includes attendance at the April, 1976 Annual Conference and all Center publications for the year.

Individual searches to non-subscribers cost $150.
